Subject: BUS PATROLLERS

People would ask me... “Well what exactly is a bus patroller? Other than telling kids to “sit down” and “turn around!” and just bossing the other students around and being mean.

Well, bus patrollers aren’t there to be mean or bossy, bus patrollers are there for the safety of the other children. If the patrollers weren’t there and something happened on the bus, like it got in an accident or the bus tipped, or maybe even fell in a ditch, the other students wouldn’t know what to do because they didn’t go to the safety patroller training.

Being a patroller is actually a big responsibility, we are the other kid’s role-model. We have to be there for them when they need us; it’s just like a babysitter. Let’s say the bus tips right over... uh oh! So all the bus patrols on duty would open up the door on the roof, and help all of the kids out quickly and safely. With out the patrollers all the students could have been injured badly, or even worse. Of course we hope none of this would happen, but you never know! So we are always there just in case ;)

You may not have known this but there are also foot patrollers!

They make sure you cross the road safely, because some kids like to fool around and sometimes they get hurt!

So next time, when you are talking back to a patroller or not listening remember what would happen without us, and that we are there for you!
